NASHVILLE SETS UP NEW UNITE IN GROUP MILESTONES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 7.—Tennessee's zero milestone, located on state memorial property in the heart of Nashville, has just been dedicated. This is the third marker of the point where distance begins and ends in the United States, and is a gift to the state from the Nashville Automobile Club, representing the club's interest in the good roads movement.

The first milestone was erected at Washington, D. C. and dedicated by the late President Harding, and the second at San Diego, California, Nashville taking the initiative in this respect in the southeast.

A good roads program featured the dedication ceremonies. Governor Austin Peary receiving the gift in behalf of the state, and other officials also participating in the program.

The milestone, hewn of white Tennessee marble, is about three feet by two and a half feet each way and five feet tall. It will contain a record of distances to various cities in Tennessee and other states.

"That knock's way back here!"

"YOU can't always tell where the knock is from the seat," says the old-time Fleet Boss. "We traced this one back to the rear axle. There's a tooth chipped off and every time it passes the pinion you hear a knock up front. A differential or transmission gear that isn't hardened right will often shed a tooth, especially if you don't keep it well lubricated. Your motor isn't the only place where oil or grease kills noise. And remember, noise usually means trouble."

There are hundreds of car models and almost every one has a spot or two at which experience says to watch lubrication with particular care. You'll have less to watch if you standardize on "Standard" Polarine Motor oils and greases. Fifty-four years of lubricating experience have made the "Standard" Polarine line the last word in quality. ## TODAY'S Washington LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The three "Busy B's" of the Cleveland convention will be Burton, Butler and Burton.
Coolidge's choice of aides for both the convention and the campaign has caused punters to work overtime in an effort to frame some trick phrase about Presidential Bee. The best result has been the rather weak suggestion that "Coolidge expects his B's to bring home the honey," and the hope that his own bees won't "sting him."
In order, Coolidge's "Busy B's" are: Theodore Burton of Cleveland, temporary chairman and keynote speaker; William M. Butler, Boston to head Republican National Committee and manage campaign; and Marion LeRoy Burton, Ann Arbor, Mich., president of the University of Michigan, to place Coolidge in nomination.
The latter Burton's selection—as in fact were all three—was a personal selection by the president. Burton was president of Smith College, at Northampton, Mass., when Cal Coolidge was mayor of that town.

The accession of William B. Butler to the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee will be but the first step in a general overhauling of the personnel of the campaign machine.

Fred Upham of Chicago, who has been G. O. P. national treasurer for many years, probably will follow Adams to the sidelines. The man most mentioned as his probable successor is Frank W. Stearns, Boston merchant, Coolidge's closest personal friend and adviser.

Politically, an objection is found in that his election would make the structure top heavy with Massachusetts timber. Should this reason cause him to be passed over, as having an official connection with the Coolidge cause, he will remain, nevertheless, as the man closest of all to Coolidge and with the Coolidge cause closest to his heart.

Chicago lost the Republican convention, which it had begun to feel could be held nowhere else, but it will house the Republican national headquarters during the campaign.

Chairman-to-be Butler already has reserved spacious quarters in the Congress Hotel, and the assault on the Midwest and West, where the fiercest fighting of the campaign will be waged, will be directed from the Windy City. Butler will go directly to Chicago from Cleveland to begin the placing of his batteries.

Last-minute favorites in the G. O. P. presidential handicap are Lowden of Illinois, Borah of Idaho, and Secretary Hoover of Iowa, and California. Neither Borah nor Hoover want it, but both are being baited by suggestions that whoever gets it will fall heir to the crown in 1928. However, there's no method of having that guarantee unwritten!

The responsibilities of a president often run counter to the desires of a father.
When John Coolidge, eldest son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, was graduated from Mercersburg Academy the other day, it was but natural that father Coolidge would be present. But Congress had just passed up to him a tax bill which required most careful study. A jam of other last-minute legislation was being crowded into the congressional mill in an effort to clear the way for an adjournment prior to the conventions.

His duties as a president ran counter to his desires as a parent. Duty won. Calvin Coolidge stuck to his desk in the executive offices. But the official restraint did not extend to Mrs. Coolidge. She went to Mercersburg.

MISERY IN HEAD, COULDN'T REST

Ohio Lady Was Suffering From Womanly Weakness, But After Taking Cardui She Grew Strong and Well

Chillicothe, Ohio.—"Cardui is my standby as a tonic," says Mrs. Mary Smith, of 677 Orange St., this city, after relating her experiences in the use of that well-known medicine for women.

Some years ago, Mrs. Smith says, she found herself in such a serious condition from some womanly weakness that she could do no work and scarcely could get up or down.

"I had misery in my head," she says, "and just ached at times till I couldn't rest. I would have dizzy, fainting spells and just stagger. I didn't have an appetite."

"Some one told me I needed a good woman's tonic. I asked and was told Cardui might help me. I began to use it and, after a short time, I could see I was being gradually made stronger. I had a good appetite. I ate and seemed to relish what I ate. I could sleep without waking up at night. I grew strong and well and when the little trouble I had very little trouble."

An Interesting Discourse

The American Indian Had Defective Eyes

Cultivated Glasses Have No Worse Eyes Than the Illiterate, But They Realize Their Misfortune—Eye Defects May Cause Disorders of the Body.

The remarkable increase in the use of glasses has given rise in some minds to an apprehension that the eyesight of the race is suffering deterioration; that civilization and modern methods of life are weakening a formerly perfect organ. This fear is unfounded. More glasses are worn because the eye, its needs and its relation to the brain, are now understood to a degree undreamed of even three decades ago. The study of the eye—technically called ophthalmology—has progressed by phenomenal strides, trying with the modern phases of surgery.

There is a commonly accepted assumption that the eyes of savage races possess no defects. We are frequently told that the American Indians, scanning the glooms of the forest or the shadeless expanse of prairie, had no need of spectacles to assist his matches vision. This is a popular hypothesis, but a well known authority makes the statement that four out of five American Indians were affected by hypermetropia, which means that they possessed the power of adjusting the eyes for a long distance but not for short. In other words, that while they saw naturally at a long range, their view of near objects was defective. With this assumption in mind the increasing number of spectacles need not excite apprehension.

It is rarely that the two eyes are found to be alike in either grown persons or children. One eye, or both frequently require help, but when both are affected they seldom need the same help. The purchase of spectacles—lenses of the same power for both eyes—is consequently preposterous for any age.

Some Physical Effects
Physicians are discovering that other abnormal conditions of the body may often be relieved by correcting errors of sight. So close and intimate relations exist between the eyes and the nervous system that the field of disorders to which eye-strain may lead is practically boundless. Disorders that apparently have no connection with the eyes can often be traced to some optical defect either for cause or aggravation.

DR. J. D. BUTLER, Ophthalmologist

If your eyes tire or if you cannot continue for any length of time to regard small objects, as in reading, if you involuntarily frown or partly close the eyes when looking at an object, or if things "swim" or become dim after being looked at for some time, if the eyes ache, smart, or water, or if the eyelids get red often; if you have pains in the eyeball, orbita, temples or forehead, or if you have any nervous derangements that you cannot otherwise account for, call immediately.

This saying is, of course, erroneous; but let us assume it to be true. In the case of sand and water, those two essentials which "make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land."
Which, then, would be the heavier, sand or water?

BRITISH FOOTBALL STARS RECEIVE OFFERS FROM U. S.

LONDON, June 7.—The temporary offers which will act for a British football game of England are receiving from America to go to the United States and act as coaches, is causing concern among England's soccer fans.

From time to time it was not unusual for one or two invitations to be received, but the number which has come to hand, now that the football season is over, shows a considerable increase.

One of the big surprises, however, is that a player named Hill, for whom a large fee was paid by his club, Burnley, last year has not yet signed his intention of staying with the club for next season. The reason for this is stated to be that he is considering an offer to take up coaching in the United States.

Brewster, a star of the Everton Football Club, has decided to go to America.

MERGER ONLY SELECTING JURY M'LEAN LEADS NEEDS O. K. BY FOR THE TRIAL IN CONTEST FOR BEATEN BY 13 CITY COUNCIL OF M'DOWELL N. C. GOVERNOR IN HOT RACE AT TOKIO DANCE

The board of supervisors of Pittsylvania county met on Saturday afternoon at the site of the new city home and conferred with members of the Pittsylvania Welfare Board and the City Home Commission.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss and act on the pending offer made by the City Home Commission for the consolidation of the city and the county almshouses. Members of the board have the project under advisement for some time and it required little time to reach a united agreement to accept the city's proposal.

The board went so far as to appoint a sub-committee of its members with power to receive plans and to let the contract for the two additional wings which will cost about $20,000 this cost to be borne by the county. The sub-committee also is authorized to close a contract with the city for a five-year agreement.

Before the contract is signed however, it will be necessary for the city council to ratify the agreement and this probably will come up at the monthly meeting of the board on Thursday night. Favorable action is anticipated, for the committee on public welfare favors the merger on the terms arrived at and it is further endorsed by the City Home Commission.

The plan for the additions will be drawn up at once and it is anticipated that C. M. Weber who is now completing the building will be awarded the contract for the wings and the reduction of the material already on the ground. The contract, however, will be let by bid.

The terms under which the county joins hands with the city in taking care of the poor have been home project that the county should pay the cost of the new wings, that it should accept a small rate to cover deterioration and that the county should pay its proportionate part of the maintenance of the county inmates on this fifty-fifty basis with the city, according to the number admitted to the home.

Howard Dodson chairman of the county Board of Welfare for the morning expressed gratification over the thought that the step would prove mutually beneficial and would afford a saving both to the city and to the county. The present county almshouse should bring about $25,000 according to conservative estimates which would pay for the building of the wings and their equipment. The per capita maintenance for twenty patients would be small and in any event lower than the per capita cost being sustained by the county supervisors. The new home is nearly completed and will be ready for the admittance of city inmates in the coming fall.

County Commissioner H. B. Polk, for colored people, under the present tentative plans. The additions can be so placed so as to enhance the appearance of the main structure now nearly complete.

(By The Associated Press.)
CLEARWATER, Fla., June 9.—Selection of a jury to try Frank McDowell, 19-year-old self-confessed slayer of his mother and sister, began today in circuit court here.

McDowell faces two indictments, one for murder of his father and another for the murder of his mother. He will be tried first on the latter indictment.

McDowell was arrested in St. Petersburg in February after he had called police officers to the McDowell home where he told a story that he had been attacked by an intruder who shot and killed his parents. Following an investigation by the police, however, he confessed not only that he had shot his mother and father to death but that on February 23, 1923, he burned his two sisters to death at Decatur, Georgia.

He declared that he had been driven to the murder by a vision of the "holy ghost" who commanded that he "wipe out with fire, blood and water a sin which he said he had committed in childhood, which he described as a blasphemy of the Holy Ghost. It commanded 'me to kill or expiate my blasphemous sin,' he said.

SENATE COMMITTEE UPHOLDS MAYFIELD

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 7.—The Senate committee investigating the election contest against Senator Mayfield, Democrat, today upheld his right to a seat in the Senate.

The evidence presented by his Republican opponent, George E. B. Peddy, was held to be insufficient to support charges that excessive campaign funds had been spent in his behalf for the purpose of securing his election to a seat in the Senate.

The decision was announced after counsel for Peddy, who have been presenting testimony for several weeks had argued in an executive session of the committee for a continuation of the hearings during the recess of Congress.

Senator Mayfield's attorneys had urged action, declaring sufficient evidence had already been produced to enable the committee to decide.

Chairman Spencer, in announcing the view of the committee, explained that the full elections committee still must act on the contest and that it would be necessary then to obtain action by the Senate itself.

MILLER ISSUES MANDATE TO FORM A NEW CABINET

PARIS, June 7.—Frederic Francois-Marsal, minister of finance in the outgoing cabinet of Raymond Poincare, tonight accepted a mandate from President Millerand to form a new cabinet.

A statement given out from the Elysee Palace said:

"The president in the afternoon received M. Poincare and later summoned Senator Francois-Marsal and requested him to form a cabinet. The cabinet will appear in the chambers Tuesday and read a message from President Millerand."

Vote Down School Bonds

A Character From Its Last Place

Of all the incidents of the local bond campaign the most striking is recorded on Page 8 of the Register of Sunday, June 8th., (which is) namely the appearance of a "Statement" on the bond issue, a 3-inch display advertisement running through the columns of the paper. The statement is in this campaign which have not had a single signature, is signed by 145 of our best citizens, and is correspondingly impressive.

The concert of action by these leaders of thought illustrates that the devices of science, especially when aided by the modern press, having come together either by chance street meeting, or by the good offices of a central promoter, and having decided to function, publish a compact at the end of their statement thus: "We further agree to pay equally the cost of publishing this statement."

A statement given out from the Elysee Palace said:

"The president in the afternoon received M. Poincare and later summoned Senator Francois-Marsal and requested him to form a cabinet. The cabinet will appear in the chambers Tuesday and read a message from President Millerand."

RALEIGH, N. C., June 9.—Angus W. McLean of Cumberland county returned today with 51,000 votes for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina. The vote with 1,018 precincts reported out of 1,719 stood as follows:

McLean, 107,423; Bailey, 54,133.

In the three cornered race for Lieutenant Governor, it appeared that a second primary would be necessary as no one of the three candidates had a majority of the precinct returns. J. Elmer Loag of Durham was leading with 23,135 votes after 592 precincts had reported while Robert S. Reynolds, of Asheville, had 20,050 and T. C. Bowie, 25,491.

McLean, a second primary it also appeared would be necessary in the commissioner of agriculture race though Wm. A. Graham, the incumbent, with 37,128 votes lacked only 6,000 votes of a majority of the precinct returns. Fred P. Latham, had 23,872 votes and T. B. Parker, 12,872.

In the attorney general race 380 precincts gave Dennis G. Brummett 30,138 votes, Charles Ross 23,138 and F. N. N. 21,080.

Stacy W. Wade, incumbent, offering for reelection, had an overwhelming lead over his opponent, J. T. Flowers, of Charlotte, the vote of 510 precincts giving Wade 57,462, while Mr. Flowers had 15,174.

For state auditor the voted stood: Baxter Durham, incumbent, 46,068; J. P. Cook, 36,164.

Corporation commissioner George P. Bell, had a commanding lead of nearly 14,000 votes over O. B. Carpenter.

TENTATIVELY AGREE ON PROHIBITION PROBE

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 7.—A thorough investigation into prohibition enforcement was tentatively agreed upon today by a majority of the members of the special senate committee which had charge of the inquiry into operation of the internal revenue bureau. Final decision is to be made at a meeting here June 17.

"It is our purpose to demonstrate to the country that prohibition has been a flat failure," said Senator King, Democrat, Utah, member of the committee after today's session.

Francis J. Heney, of California, whose proposed employment to help the committee some weeks ago led to a bitter controversy and a message from President Coolidge, probably will not serve on committee counsel.

FROZEN CHICKENS FOR SOLDIERS

MRS. FLEMING TO INVESTIGATE 13 DEMONSTRATION N. C. GOVERNOR IN HOT RACE AT TOKIO DANCE

(Special to The Bee.)
REIDSVILLE, N. C., June 9.—On the face of unofficial returns, Mrs. Evelyn Fleming, the first woman in Rockingham county to seek political office at the hands of the people, has been defeated by W. S. Chambers for register of deeds.

All the precincts have been heard from and Chambers has a vote of 1180, while Mrs. Fleming has 1167. Chambers was easily defeated by 13.

Mrs. Fleming intends to ask for a recount at the official canvass of the vote tomorrow, which will take place at Wentworth. It is just possible that in the compilation of the unofficial returns, an error in the tally by telephone which mistakes have occurred which will eventually upset the outcome.

Mrs. Fleming is the wife of the superintendent of the Wentworth consolidated schools. She has been deputy register of deeds at Wentworth for the past four years and is generally esteemed.

HEFFLIN SCORES LAND CASES

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 7.—Senator Hefflin, Democrat, Alabama, took a final fling in the Senate today at the Texas land cases, charging Will Hays, former postmaster general, and the postoffice department had stopped the investigation into charges of frauds.

He again attacked R. B. Creager and state officials in Texas who opposed the Senate committee's investigation and reiterated charges that "thugs" had been hired to murder and harass persons.

Official Action to Be Taken Against Political Ruffians.

(By The Associated Press.)
TOKIO, June 9.—Thorough investigation will be made of the demonstration staged at a dance in the Imperial Hotel Saturday evening by a group of "political ruffians," the Japanese Foreign Office informed the Associated Press today.

Until such investigation is made, however, it was pointed out, no official action can be taken toward punishing the offenders.

Officials expressed regret at the outbreak of vandalism which created pandemonium among the crowd of foreigners attending the dance, and caused two American women to faint. They emphasized, however, that the demonstration was not aimed directly against Americans but against Japanese whom the "patriots" considered were indulging in frivolous amusement with foreigners at a time when the intruders believed that the country had been incited.

Police have not made any arrests in connection with the affair. They indicate that one is likely to be made if the demonstrators do not break the law or harm any one.

As an outgrowth of the demonstration the Imperial Hotel management has announced that no more public dances will be held there.

The ruffians entered the ball room when the dance was at its height, took possession of the floor, brandished swords and made several profane and bitter anti-American speeches.

"Greater Danville" Facts For Annexationists

1. The extension of our limits should be in every direction, as is our growth, so that every section may have its chance for further sub-division. Lateral streets should pierce the new outer Northside, where the natural lay of the ground is especially inviting for development, thus avoiding too much string-town-on-the-pike—as existing elsewhere.
2. The annexed territory would improve itself out of its tax-revenue for the first five years. No extra drain upon our present treasury. The general re-assessment is coming in 1935, and that would help. By setting aside 12 per cent. of values on assessment at time of annexation, for improvements, the City could have a new territory yield immediately and permanently for some such end and not squandered on non-essentials. But no giving of the children's bread to the dogs—Never!
3. Many do not realize the taxable values, on a proper urban assessment, of such an area as Schoolfield, which would give improvement for the whole zone or circle of annexation. The County, kept in ignorance of the value of the area, is in a position to "go into Danville," in the case of a threat of land-owners to "go into Danville." If the assessment is not satisfactorily kept down, is far from being a "what should go to it now. The owners are thus great beneficiaries of two-cross currents which are played against each other.
4. There is no piece-meal valuation, in assessing, as in the City. Schoolfield is simply one private County holding and has lump computation for land and improvements of about 1700 acres. Valuation of land is $40 per acre (without timber). Value of improvements (with small omissions) is $4,465,300. Total (with small omissions) $4,505,300. Total of levies to County (with small omissions) is $79,308. These are 1923 figures.
5. Compare recent sales values with present assessments. For instance, R. A. Schoolfield and D. A. Overby sold private reservation, May 18th, 1922, to their Mill Company for $100,000—about 1-2 acre with building hardy shore than a shack. Present assessment: Building, $200, land $200, State tax, $100. Total County and District levies, $500. On July 21st, 1923, the Mill Company bought 1-4 acre of land assessed at $400 with small buildings assessed at $900, for $15,000. The price was all reasonable enough but they show the difference between the present and what would be the value of the property if it were assessed on a proper urban basis. One can estimate from such data what proper urban assessments would mean to the City of Danville if it claims its own.

Last Words

Greater Danville must come. It should have come 17 years ago at the last annexation. At that time Mr. H. R. Fitzgerald, representing the Mill Company, was constrained to oppose the annexation of Schoolfield, where the population was densest, in addition to territory lying between it and the City. There are many, however, who describe it as unthinkable that this foremost citizen would now do anything that would block progress or detract from the growth and prestige of the City, to the advance of which he so efficiently and continuously spurs on others. The Chamber of Commerce, clubs, and the press must soon espouse actively the cause of Greater Danville, which no candidate or public agency can afford to oppose, since valid reasons can not be found. In the contest of tomorrow, the "boys" simply do not know which way the cat will jump, and all 18 of them should, perhaps, be allowed the chance to slip by any candidates and take the fort for Greater Danville. The annexation is a date not being Romans, for they can sense a sincere and overwhelming submerged sentiment for a Greater Danville. If an opponent rises, give him the acid test and probe for self-interest and a hyphenated citizenship. And you must look below the surface, too, and remember not only the birds in the hand but those in the bush, and a heavy sense of favors to come, and the gestures made that thrift may follow favoring.

Well, fellow citizens, if any Invisible Government begins to operate in a new Council, and you have put me there, it will become

VISIBLE

Perhaps you would then be able to look after the rest. Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow. But let us hope that such a government will fold its tents like the Arabs, and as silently steal away. Peace hath its victories no less than war. Such government is extraneous and no part of such a thing as cotton manufacture, so appropriately located here, and having achieved the richest success in our annals and made great reputations, which we really honor.

When the technical and detailed contest for annexation shall be staged, as in the hymn, "TELL MOTHER I'LL BE THERE," with your permission, fellow citizens!

Four long years ahead look down on you! Strike while the iron's hot! A stitch in time saves Nine.

I have not played any "game" in this contest. I have no connection with any "ticket." No one knew of my intentions in advance. My candidacy was a sudden impulse, and that of a platform rather than of myself. I did not have time to go around and ask folks to take me to run. I am no better than I should be, of course, but I have no friends, and I want no friends, where friendship means blinking what I could not approve. I have paid my own expenses with no present or future understanding with anyone. I have not dealt in glittering generalities but in concrete details which are the crux of the case. Too many "I's"—talking about myself. But you know us evangelists!

And if on Wednesday morning next I shall cheerfully raise my gray head from a cool and refreshing shower, and if a platform of memory: "I'M JOINING TO FIGHT"—for GREATER DANVILLE!

June 9th, 1924. H. C. FICKLEN.

Work of Community Welfare Association

By Miss Margaret Maxon.

Normal life is the goal which the Community Welfare Association desires to direct its clients. Failures in normal living are as numerous and complex as human experience. To overcome these failures even slightly a family welfare agency must avail itself of all community resources. This means that our work is of great variety and scope and it is difficult to define the limits of our field. However, we could accomplish nothing constructive without a concrete object and without well-thought out methods of attainment.

Spiritual progress is the underlying motive which is responsible for the development of organized social service. Those who contribute to the work, those who administer it and those who are recipients of its benefits, all are united by the fact that systematic social service indicates spiritual coldness and dying out of religious zeal. As a matter of fact systematic social service indicates that the spiritual life is a community is catching step with its intellectual progress.

It is impossible to conduct a social service agency which renders any real service to the community without a definite system. Records must be kept in order that the accomplishments and the information accumulated in each case may be available at a moment's notice. The handling of public money necessitates accurate accounting. Without it the association would be open to the most serious criticism. Efficiency requires that particular duties be assigned to the different staff members so that the administrative field, and clerical departments shall function smoothly.

A general plan is followed in the handling of all cases. With such modifications as are necessary because of individual differences. An investigation is made within twenty-four hours after a case is reported to us. The nature of this investigation depends somewhat upon the nature of the application. Clients come to us in three ways, they are referred by other agencies, by individuals or they make personal application. Our first step is to get as full information as possible in regard to the family and from a study of this information to determine the real problem. Once we have made our diagnosis—and this is sometimes a matter of long study—we work out a definite plan of treatment by means of which we hope to restore the family to independence. The relief given prior to such a diagnosis is comparable to drugs used merely as pain-killers without regard to the cause of the pain. Relief given after diagnosis is designed to cure the family dependency.

The indiscriminate giving of relief is dangerous. It is essential, however, that we should be able to give adequate relief if our service is to be constructive. We cannot convince a normal man that it is right for him to stop work and enter a sanatorium unless we can assure him that his family will be fed during his absence. We might argue indefinitely about the danger of exposure to his children, but if we could not agree to feed them he might argue with even greater conviction about the danger of starvation.

Before financial relief is given we estimate the family budget including food, fuel, rent, water light and insurance. Our relief funds are limited and we are obliged to keep this budget down to what is known as the poverty level. Some day we hope to be able to give relief on what is known as the health and decency level. After the budget is prepared we determine what proportion of it can be met by the family itself. We next endeavor to secure as much of the balance as possible from collateral sources, such as relatives, interested friends, etc. We then make up the deficiency from our relief fund. Nothing but necessities are purchased. Our diet list is wholesome but limited. Relief expenditures this year have averaged $1000 a month.

The foregoing constitutes what we call material relief. We rate as much higher the intangible "service relief" which is frequently a result of our influence. For instance, for over three years we have been working with a young woman and hoping against hope to persuade her to adopt a normal way of living. Within the last week we learned that we had accomplished our object. Our efforts often bring about better housing conditions, more sanitary home-keeping, higher education standards, more regular church attendance.

The tender variety of service demanded of us requires cooperation on a whole basis. We can accomplish nothing without the good will of our clients themselves. We are handicapped if relatives, friends, employers, physicians and ministers do not back us up. Innumerable times each day we call on other agencies for service for our families. In the final analysis the general public is our judge. Without its cooperation accomplishment is impossible.

Since it is our aim to make a normal life possible for others we must as social workers adhere to a code of ethics which is consistent with the ideals we set for our people. We must regard as confidential the information they give us about their personal affairs. We must feel the weight of responsibility in giving advice to others on matters of vital importance to them. We should endeavor always to put ourselves in their place. We must regard as sacred the welfare of the individual and of the community. Finally we must always consider it our duty to understand the other fellow sympathetically regardless of whether he is friend or foe, client or critic.

An Intimate Story of Intimate Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM WALTER BURKE TO RUTH ELLINGTON

MY DARLING:

At last I can say these words to you—words that have been singing in my heart for all the years since I have known you—my darling! Now I have the right to call you that, and you have the right to listen to it, for you are free—free from that scoundrel who made you so unhappy.

I'm coming to claim you, dear. You know that I would do that, didn't you? Ruth, the moment that I knew you had gotten your divorce? You knew that I would be only happy when I could hold you in my arms and look into your eyes and hear you tell me that you loved me.

Dear one, you have never told me this. In fact, as I write this letter, I grow a little cold for fear that you do not really love me. Oh, Ruth, I want you to love me, for I know that that your love would mean to me the same as to whom you gave it. No other woman in all the world would give so generously or have so much to give.

Do you know, dear, that I've only one great regret, and that is that in the years of my life before I knew you I made a semblance of love to many women and now that I have found the Real Woman, now that I know that you are the one woman who can fill my life, I find a dearth in the English language to tell you of my great love for you.

Oh, Ruth, a man makes such a mistake in flitting away his emotions to those other women, whom he knows absolutely will only fascinate him for a time. He should save that love for a woman who will love him as I do, for I know that I will come as nearly as I can to living up to her ideals, good or bad.

Ruth, darling, as I write this, I see you coming toward me. I read out my arms to embrace the miles of space. I feel your soft body within these arms, crushing itself close, close to mine. I see your eyes opening to let me see the love that lies within them. I am dreaming of the greatest joy I have ever known.

Ruth, I could not be disappointed. I could not bear it. I want you so. I am coming to get you and take you and keep you mine—mine, for ever and ever.

WALTER.

TOMORROW: Letter from Bally Atherton to Beatrice Grimshaw.

Community Welfare Cause Is Presented

Miss Margaret Maxon, executive secretary of the Community Welfare Association, addressed a congregation representing six south-side churches at Main Street Methodist church, and told them of the work that has been accomplished by the organization she is shortly to leave, stressing particularly that intangible quality of the work which makes for spiritual accord. In her extemporaneous address she traced the development of the work when it was viewed in some quarters with skepticism and told how it has shown by its record that it fills a real need in the community's life.

Ministers from several of the churches represented participated in the service and music was rendered by the uniting choir, Rev. Samuel T. Senter introduced Miss Maxon, paying to her and the organization she heads a tribute for its efficiency. Miss Maxon went back to that period in the organization's life, four years ago, when there was a serious question of its being continued the view prevailing that existing agencies performed the necessary work and that there was not a vital need for a highly organized welfare association. The need, however, was established and the past four years she said had justified the organization's existence with the establishment of field service. Miss Maxon explained that the work of the organization is not simply one of affording relief in emergency and providing necessary living comforts, but that the work has broader aspects, teaching families how to be self-supporting and having a distinct educational value. Reference was made in her address to the present period of industrial depression and to the fact that the local situation has been effectively handled. In dwelling on the spiritual values of the work Miss Maxon compared the community with material distress, declaring that just as the individual reacts to human need so does the community on a larger scale. The struggle to give service, she said, is not greater than the struggle to secure assistance and that it was through the welfare organization that both could be accomplished.

Miss Maxon's address was later commended as an admirable presentation of the cause, not so much as a material accounting but for the idealism behind the welfare effort.

The Robert Memorial W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. M. E. Thompson, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Every member is urged to be present.

FASHION NOTES

"PENNY" BROWN

There is a new shade of brown called "penny" which has aroused a great deal of attention in fashion circles.

BIRDS AGAIN

Bird-trimmed hats are seen on the most smartly dressed women, the tropical, highly colored birds being the favorites.

WIDE BRIMS

Wide brimmed felt hats are the latest report from Paris millinery circles. They are practically untrimmed and depend upon their line for their chic.

RIBBON BELTS

Belts of Roman striped ribbon are worn effectively with flannel skirts and tailored blouses.

PIN TUCKS

Pin tucks are used as trimming for flannel and serge frocks. They are more practical than pleats and they give much the same effect.

COSTUME SLIPS

Costume slips are elaborately lace-trimmed this season, but all trimming is very flatly applied, so that there can be no possibility of complicating the line of the frock.

DESIGNS

Geometric designs in colored velvet or wool are used to border and trim white silk costumes.

BLAZER STRIPES

Blazer striped jackets frequently show the stripes running horizontally instead of vertically.

BLUE AND BLACK

The combination of king's blue and black is frequently seen and promises to rival the red and black that has been such a rage this spring.

HELPFUL HINTS

If the rug or carpet is very dusty it is well to scatter damp paper or damp bran over the surface to take up some of the dust so that the job of sweeping will not be so unpleasant.

COVER BROOM

Cover the broom with a piece of clean flannel or cotton flannel and brush the ceiling and walls, using downward stroke. You can remove much of the dust without leaving any streaks. As the covering becomes soiled, replace it with a new one.

CLEANS BRASSES

Brasses may be cleaned very satisfactorily with oil and rottenstone.

PROTECT SILVER

Always keep your silver in a separate compartment because hard implements like steel knives scratch it.

RUB WITH HANDS

Never rub silk garments on the board in washing. Always rub them with the hands.

LAUNDERING LINEN

Table linen that is of excellent, fine quality will not require starch, but linen that lacks body will be improved by the use of a very little bit.

RUBBER APRON

A rubber apron will protect the clothing while doing the washing.

TURN MATTRESS

Turn your mattress in different positions on the bed frequently so as to distribute the wear and keep it even.

Blue Ribbon Cows Hobby Glass

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Catch Senator Carter Glass in a spare moment and he'll start talking cows to you.

For prizes cows are his real hobby and he has one of the finest herds in the south at Montview Farms, in Lynchburg, Va.

And then, when his spare moment is over, he will swing around to his desk and sail in again, for he is a plucker on the job as senator.

Glass starts the day by getting up when he feels like it—but always in time to be at his desk in the Senate office building by around 9:30.

He eats a fairly heavy breakfast before he starts his walk to work and breakfast lasts him until supper time, for the noonday meal is always passed up.

During the morning a loud peal of laughter may break from behind Glass' office door. It's the senator laughing at a joke, told by some member of the office staff. For he appreciates a good joke or story—and he can give one as well as take one.

Senate business occupies his time straight through noon hour and usually up until the late afternoon. Then he walks home, a good ride in the evening Glass usually turns to reading and often the wee hours still find him buried in a book.

Strophographs are his long suit, and works on Napoleon his favorite in this line.

"Maybe that's because I am exactly the same height as Napoleon—which isn't so high," says Glass.

The senator gets back home to his farm once a week, over the week end. And while there he gets his fill of his favorite food, Virginia spoon bread.

Glass has four children, all married, and they take turns during the summer hobnobbing with dad and the cows at Montview Farms.

Hungry Moth Worms Destroyed by Dethol

Scientific spray kills unseen larvae and protects garments

For years the thrifty housewife has been forced to rely upon mere moth preventives as the sole protection for blankets, clothing, furs, upholstery, etc. Each spring she has packed away her prized belongings, only to find them riddled with holes when taken out of storage.

But all this now is ended. Thanks to a new, powerful, new preparation formulated by Richmond chemists, every woman now can be certain that moths are not feeding upon her things—even though they are stored in an open closet.

To-day the careful housewife merely sprays Dethol freely, once a week, on garments not in use and in places where they are hanging. The powerful Dethol spray penetrates to the unseen hiding places of both the moth eggs and the hungry, destructive moth worms—utterly exterminating these pests. Dethol does its work thoroughly. And it does not stain.

Dethol also is highly valuable as an aid to easy house cleaning. Sprayed lightly on tubs, sinks, lavatory basins, tile, marble, windows, glass and enamel ware, it cleans and disinfects without hard scrubbing. You simply wipe the sprayed articles clean with a damp rag. Dethol kills roaches, ants, bedbugs, flies and mosquitoes too. Quickly and surely. Full directions on can.

You really cannot afford to be without Dethol. If your drug store, grocery, hardware or department store does not carry Dethol, we will send you the handy combination package—complete with sprayer and large can of Dethol—post free, on receipt of one dollar. Dethol Mfg. Co., Inc., Richmond, Va.

AMERICA LOSES CEDAR TRADE FOR GERMAN PENCIL INDUSTRY

NUREMBERG, Germany, May 28.—East Africa has replaced the United States as the source of supply of cedar for the Nuremberg pencil industry. This German industry, which centers here, has fully recovered from the after effects of the war, and in trade circles it is reported that the manufacturers have enough foreign orders on hand to keep the plants in full operation many months. Both the cedar and the graphite for pencils are imported, the main graphite supply being found in Siberia. Previous to 1914 the cedar was imported principally from America and the West Indies, but the war upset the old channel of trade and new fields in East Africa have been developed.

Not What You Do But Who Does It

Is the City Council above the law? Must all others obey while our City Fathers are exempt? Is there anybody anywhere whose business it is to see that those in public office shall abide by the laws of Virginia and even the laws which the Council have themselves ordained and approved? The people of Danville have elected a body of law-makers who are lawless and law-defying. They write regulations that govern the conduct of others and utterly ignore them when they affect themselves. This is strong language but the records justify it.

The Constitution of Virginia, the Code of Virginia and the city charter all in direct and positive language provide that in order to be a member of the Council a person must be a qualified voter. B. J. Hurd is admittedly not a qualified voter. The present Council in deliberate violation of law elected Mr. Hurd. Nothing is done about it, and Mr. Hurd now seeks to have the people approve his lawless conduct in this matter.

Section 659 of the city ordinance is as follows:

Sec. 659.—No officer of the city or member of the Council shall directly or indirectly contract with the city or any of its boards or committees for furnishing it or any of its departments with labor, supplies, machinery, or other articles, or for doing any work for the city, nor shall he be interested in the profits of any such contracts. Any one violating this section shall be fined fifty dollars and, in addition, shall be guilty of malfeasance in office and subject to removal therefrom.

W. E. Gardner & Co., (not Incorporated), in January, 1921, was paid $182.50 for hauling by the city of Danville. W. W. Bowman in April, 1924, was paid $1,150 for four mules. W. W. Bowman is the silent partner of W. E. Gardner & Co. Guy F. Walton in April, 1924, was paid $42.00 for hauling.

Messrs. Gardner and Walton received this money in plain violation of the city law. They have used their official position to take money in the teeth of a provision of the law to the contrary. By the terms of an ordinance in existence for long years and again approved by the present Council on March 12th, 1923, they have been guilty of malfeasance in office and have forfeited their right to sit as councilmen; yet nobody proceeds against them, and they unblushingly offer themselves as candidates for re-election to offices which they have already misused.

During the recent session of the General Assembly, the City Council paid the expenses of A. B. Carrington, W. E. Gardner and City Attorney A. M. Aiken, totalling $95.93 for the purpose of going to Richmond to urge the views of individual councilmen with reference to charter changes. We defy any living man to point to one line in the city charter which can be stretched to sustain the authority of the Council to pay such expenses. The City Council has no right with reference to the advocacy of or opposition to charter legislation superior to other citizens; and yet they have undertaken to advance their personal ideas and views, not at their personal expense, but at the expense of the community at large. It is a plain diversion of public funds for private use, unauthorized and unwarranted by law and contrary to the sort of ideals that should prevail in the administration of public funds. The city has the right to recover this money so expended. It belongs to the city, and yet the city officials sit idly by and permit this violation of law and shut their eyes. We defy any successful challenge of these facts. They cannot be met by sob-stuff and sneers at "practical politicians." No other Council in the history of Danville has such a record as this "Goo Goo Council." No defense for such action can be made except the sort of defense that was heard in some quarters in the oil scandal. If this is good government, God save the city!

Big Three Lose in American; Giants Beat Pittsburgh

FULL REBELLION IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, June 9.—Discontent among the players of the big leagues, evidenced by sporadic uprisings of individual clubs, has assumed the proportions of full rebellion in the American circuit. New York and Boston tied for the leadership, and Detroit, one game behind, a triumvirate which has dominated the league since the organization for several weeks, with Washington, which recently joined the first division forces, were yesterday defeated in a mass attack by the lower four.

During the action, however, the insurgents lost their leader, St. Louis, which moved into fourth place as Washington dropped to fifth. The Browns defeated the world's champion for the second consecutive day as Danforth outpitched Pennock and gave the Yankees their first shut out of the year, 5 to 0. Four double plays by his infield supported the southpaw. White Sox were stronger than Red Sox as the pale hose abandoned their hitless tactics and fell upon three Boston pitchers for a 10 to 3 victory, featured by the daring base running and fielding of the speedy arch-deacon, who after making a circus catch, scored unaided at the sealing second, taking third on Plonch's poor

N the road for three days—at Winston-Salem—and then back home for three days—with High Point, the league leaders. This is the schedule for the Tobaccoists this week. If Danville can just get with Winston until the new material arrives, then things will look brighter. Murphy, and all the fans too for that part, is anxious that some of the new men join the club by the Thursday when Herndon's "Murderers" come to Danville.

That game Saturday certainly was a beauty—and Danville won it too, although it took them eleven innings to do it. It was lost several times but desperate fighting and timely hitting led the scored twice and untied it once for the victory.

With all hopes gone, Manager himself, who had been the subject of much razzing because of his several boots, slammed out a homer in the ninth with Regan on a great lead.

Many fans, who were leaving, seated themselves again and saw two more strenuous innings.

Shoaf had pitched a great game but after Murphy's homer he was a circuit blow in the tenth. The game seemed lost again but once more the locals showed across the tying run, thanks to Cudge Harris, pinch hitting for Shoaf who got a timely single with Maltland, who pinch hit for Inman on second.

Pitcher McWhirter then relieved Shoaf and by superb pitching turned the visitors back one, two, three. Then Trefry and Resco who hadn't got a hit did the work and sent the crowd home happy.

And all this in spite of Umpire Mahley, who like on Thursday didn't give the locals what was coming to them. In one inning Resco got a hit, the ball hitting first base and rolling into the rightfield. It was good for a double, but Mahley couldn't see it that way for Danville. He called it a foul.

A short time later Bourg, a Durham player hit in identically the same spot, but he was a visiting player, you know, and Mr. Umps, ruled it fair and perched on second.

If Murphy can't do any better at present, looks like Eddie Regan will be able to play the keystone position in fine style. He starred on Saturday.

But Eddie seemed to be anxious to steal twice and was caught between bases, even before Pitcher Hackney had started to deliver to the catcher. A good lead is essential in stealing and Eddie's behavior in that but to get a lead before the pitcher starts his delivery is fatal. Little more careful next time Eddie.

McDonald, who got it home runs last night in the Eastern Shore League got his first with Danville Saturday. Maybe he has now found his batting eye and duplicate some of his "stuff" of last year.

TOBACCONISTS' JOURNEY TO WINSTON FOR FIRST SERIES, HERE THURSDAY

Standing at the 500 mark. The Danville baseball club left this morning for Winston-Salem for a series of three games, after which they will return home for a trio of tussles with High Point's murderers. None of the new material expected by Manager Murphy had showed up this morning but at least two new players are expected any time. Murphy is working hard to strengthen the batting strength of the team. Should be in the series with Winston, who have to have new faces in the line-up by have new faces in the line-up by Makers.

19 TO BE TRIED FOR BEATING UP DAN RIVER FISH

Police Officers R. A. Adams and Ira Harris this morning described the massacre of about 100,000 pounds of fish just below the Schoolfield dam yesterday at noon, and a formidable raid on fishermen who, departing from the ethics of the sport laid down by the non-sportsmen, created Isaac Walton, laid about them with iron pipes, sticks, staves and even bricks. Nineteen men in all were arrested by the policemen and summoned to court on Friday when they will be charged with violating the county fish law. Game Warden C. E. Kelley arrested five other men in Danville also charged with a murderous onslaught on the finny tribe of Dan River.

The Danville officers received a tip at noon that the war of extermination was on near Schoolfield with a vengeance. They hastened to the spot in an automobile. According to their accounts twenty or thirty of the men made their way to the dam and in the drop and about 100 pounds of fish already killed was towed back into the stream. Their estimate of the fishy casualties is about one thousand pounds, some of the carp weighing as much as fifteen pounds, bass, red-horn suckers and catfish being embroiled in the haul.

How was it possible to kill the slippery customers with such strange implements? That is explained by the officers in the following way. Water pouring through the dam slings carries thousands of fish and in the drop the fish are stunned by the force of the water and landing in shallow pools are easy prey. The fishermen waded into the pools and with their sticks and pitchforks successfully beheaded the denizens of Dan River before they had recovered their finny wits.

Down in Danville the task of fishing was even easier for, as the river receded during the day, lots of fish were marooned in little pools and were easily caught. Kelley explained this morning that the procedure passed a law at

Wills and Madden to Fight Tonight

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, June 9.—The right to meet Luis Angel Firpo and Jack Dempsey will be a special incentive to victory for Harry Wills tonight when he meets Bartley Madden in a fifteen-round bout at the New Queensboro Stadium. This will be Wills' first real battle in two years and will mark the first successful attempt out of five efforts to bring the heavyweights together during the past six months. Injuries to Wills and interference by fire department officials prevented the other four scheduled bouts.

The experts are practically unanimous in predicting a victory for Wills. Madden, however, is confident he can stop his opponent in eight rounds. It is generally conceded that Wills must put Madden away in order to prove himself a worthy challenger of Dempsey.

FEMALE TROUBLES OVERCOME

Mrs. Lee Also Praises Famous Tonic "DRECO" for Relieving Headache, Dizzy Spells and Nervousness.

"I'm certainly glad to recommend Dreco," writes Mrs. Bessie Lee, 321 N. Union St., Danville, Va. "for the bottle and a half I took did me worlds of good. I'm no longer troubled with those awful pains or dizzy spells and the catarrh of the nose and head has disappeared entirely. I'm no longer nervous and restless at night, sleep the whole night through and instead of waking up tired and listless with a white coated tongue and a stale taste in my mouth I get up feeling as fresh as can be. Dreco has also overcome female troubles and made me a happy, healthy carefree woman again. I've already recommended it to a great many and shall take pleasure in telling many others about the grand tonic."

Indigestion, constipation, headaches, spots before the eyes, gas, rheumatism, backache, impure blood and a hundred other ills quickly give way to the natural juices of the 12 remarkable herbs, leaves, roots and barks from which Dreco is made. Dreco increases the appetite, promotes sound refreshing sleep and makes one healthy, vigorous and vitally alive.

Dreco is made by the famous David H. Fulton & Bro., Laboratories, Baltimore, Md., and is being specially introduced in this section by Patterson Drug Co., and sold by druggists everywhere.—adv.

Statement By B. J. Hurd

TO THE PUBLIC:
With reference to the statements in the press concerning my candidacy for the City Council, I have endeavored to ascertain my status from various lawyers, and the general opinion is that, if I am elected on June 10th, I will be eligible to take office on September 1st.

The City Attorney, Judge A. M. Aiken, advises me that this question has never been decided in Virginia, but that in States where the question has been raised, in the majority of cases the date of taking office is the controlling date. On this basis there is no further question of my eligibility. My failure to pay my taxes was purely an oversight; I have always promptly paid my taxes for many years, and as my taxes were fully paid on January 23, 1924, I feel that I have every moral and legal right to run for office.

In view of the attacks made upon me, I shall greatly appreciate the votes and support of my fellow-citizens.

Yours very truly,
B. J. HURD.

June 9, 1924.

Sheriff Gunn Winner Saturday

(Special to The Bee.)
YANCEYVILLE, N. C., June 9.—Only about one-half of the thrifless prospects in Caswell county have been heard from in Saturday's primary and the official canvass will be made. Sheriff Gunn appears to have won in the initial contest with three others in the field. A second or "run off" primary will be held. Available reports show that Bailey for governor received 262 votes in the precincts heard from and McLean 215. T. H. Hatchett and J. J. Lippcomb are ahead for county commissioners. A. L. Pleasant is ahead for county treasurer and E. S. Neal for house of representatives.

SORE, BLEEDING GUMS STOPPED IN 12 HOURS

Creosene, A Pleasant Liquid That Accomplishes At Home all the Good Benefits of Treatment In Dental Chair Without the Pain and Expense.

Sore, bleeding gums indicate the beginning of pyorrhea. If neglected this infection spreads from the gum tissue to the root sockets—the foundation on which your teeth depend. Then the teeth fall out or must be pulled. Through a penetrating liquid, medicated with gum healing and germ destroying ingredients used by the dental profession carries the infection direct to the roots of the teeth, relieving pain, tightening loose teeth, healing pus pockets, destroying decayed teeth odors and killing the germ throat leads to pyorrhea. The medicines used in Creosene are new, but are well known and used by the entire dental profession. The new discovery is the method of penetration which carries the gum-healing, germ-destroying medicines direct to the roots of the teeth and into every nook, corner and crevice. In and of itself, the Creosene is a pleasant way, all the good benefits of a treatment in the dental chair, without the pain and expense. If your gums are sore and bleed easily, or your teeth sensitive or loose, this is your warning of pyorrhea ahead. Do not wait one minute, but go immediately to any good drug store, and purchase a dollar bottle of Creosene. In twelve hours or money refunded. Creosene Co., Atlanta, Ga.—adv.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE OBSERVERS AT THE POLLS ON JUNE THE 10TH.

Cut this out for quick reference. Have a small pencil note book and jot down name of any violator of the law, man or woman, and down names of two other witnesses if possible. The law is obeyed, and guarantees an unimpaired election for the voter to tell no one outside and entirely secret. Possibly it is best for the voter to tell no one outside of the 40 foot line how he is going to vote or how he has voted. Here are the high lights of our Virginia law: (The Corporation Court is in session all day June 10th.)

Code of Va., Sec. 141 (summarized): No one but a voter, while voting or if any challenger, can come within 40 feet of the ballot box and the judges of election.

Code of Va., Sec. 143: It shall be unlawful for any elector to carry the official ballot furnished him by the judge of election further than the voting booth or to make any copy thereof, and should he after inspecting said ballot, conclude not to vote, he shall immediately return said ballot to the judges of election. Except as provided by Section 146, (as to physical disability), no person shall ADVISE, COUNSEL, OR ASSIST ANY ELECTOR, BY WRITING, WORD, OR GESTURE, as to how he shall vote or mark his ballot after the same has been delivered to him by the judges of election. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, or, upon conviction thereof SHALL BE FINED NOT LESS THAN $500 NOR MORE THAN $1000 AND CONFINED IN JAIL SIX MONTHS, or he shall be the duty of the judge of election to cause by verbal order or warrant THE INSTANT ARREST OF ANY PERSON making such attempt, and he shall be required to vote or surrender said ballot, and upon failure so to do, he may be confined in jail by order of the judges of election until he obeys said requirements, but such confinement shall not exceed ten days.

The voter MUST mark his ticket inside the polling booth, marking out the names of those he does not wish to vote for. He can vote for 9 Councilmen, or any number less than 9. If his vote is for more than 9, it is thrown out. If he wants to vote against bonds, he scratches out "For Bond Issue" clear through the words. (Advertisement paid for by H. C. Ficklen.)

CHARGE BRUTAL TACTICS IN WRINGING CONFESSIONS

By OWEN L. SCOTT
(Copyright, 1934, by The Bee)
CHICAGO, June 4.—The gentle art of wringing "confessions" from suspects, long known as the "third degree," has been developed to such a high point by the Chicago police in their "gold fish room" efforts to solve the murder of young Robert Franks that it has turned into a boomerang in their hands.

So vigorous were the police tactics that human welfare societies are threatening action while friends of Walter Wilson, one of the instructors of the exclusive Harvard school which the Franks boy attended, are planning criminal action against certain police officials as a result of their efforts to make Wilson "confess."

Meanwhile, it is being freely predicted that the confessions of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, the youthful "thrill slayers," will be attacked in court on the ground that they were not voluntary. Here, though it is admitted, the third degree was merely mental, and was fully justified by the results.

But Wilson and his two fellow instructors at Harvard school stand out as exhibits A, B and C of what is not justified in the way of third degree. These now forgotten figures in the Franks case had once made some remark that sounded as though it might be incrimination. As a result, they spent seven days in the "goldfish room," undergoing experiences which assert make the tactics of the Russian cheka appear humane.

The "goldfish room," be it known, derives its name from the fact that it is plentifully equipped with convenient latte sections or rubber hose which, wielded by a strong arm inflect cruel upbraidings, yet leave no marks. The undulations of the hose marks as it is brandished before the victim remind some imaginative policeman of the motions of a goldfish—hence the title "goldfish room."

Whisked away from their homes without warning with no word to their friends as to where they had been taken, the three instructors were taken to the "goldfish room."

Not a chance for habeas corpus proceedings. No one knew where they were. All that was known came out in newspaper stories apparently inspired, which announced that the prisoners were at the point of confessing the Franks murder.

Here, in the words of Walter Wilson's lawyer, is what happened to Wilson in the "goldfish room." He was beaten with a rubber hose until it was torture for him even to breathe. Of course, during this time, he was bound. Twice he was assaulted by a police lieutenant on the person. Two policemen held the instructor while the lieutenant knocked him down with his fist. The point was to argue Mr. Wilson into confessing that he had kidnapped and killed Robert Franks.

"The prisoner got little or no sleep during their inquisition," the goldfish operators would tell him stories about the horrors of hanging. One of their favorite yarns was about how Carl Wanderer had gone to his death singing "Pal of Mine."

Seven days of this—days so filled with horror for the victims that even King Philip of Spain must have turned in his grave in jealousy of this new inquisition—and then the three suspects were released and forgotten. Not a breath of suspicion attached to them, although in the inhuman stories had been blazoned before the public. No charge had been made against them.

Such tactics have proved extremely successful in the past. They were successful in one recent case that two sets of persons confessed the same murder, and mire "goldfishing" had to be done to find out which confessors were telling the truth.

But the pretty little goldfish now wiggle for future suspects if the three Harvard school instructors go successfully through with their plans to punish the fishermen.

Scientists in Los Angeles tried out jazz saxophone selections on the zoo animals, and the baboon danced. Some animals are so human!

Anyway, these redolite stockings being featured in a Parisian style show ought to make a big impression near-sighted mosquitos.

Everyman's Investments

By GEORGE T. HUGHES

TWENTY-THIRD ARTICLE

"Business Man's Investment."

A term constantly used by financial writers and advisers is "business man's investment." Generally this phrase is applied to securities carrying a certain degree of risk. The theory seems to be that a business man is able because of his presumably greater resources and of his knowledge of affairs to take greater chances than one who is entirely dependent for a living upon the income from his investments and who is not in touch with changing conditions in the business world. Such a business man by diversifying his holdings is able substantially to increase the average return. It is taken for granted that the business man investor will be able to recognize the development of adverse conditions in the industries represented by his securities and will dispose of the same at a loss if necessary.

Doubtless there are such business men but my experience has been that the average business man is little better qualified to protect his interests in this way than is the veriest tyro in financial affairs. The trouble is that too often the business man's investment develops into a business man's speculation and the rules for successful speculation, admitting that there is such a thing as successful speculation, are direct contradictions of those for investing. Successful speculation, are direct contradictions of those for investing. Successful speculation involves the willingness and the ability to take losses, small losses before they become large ones.

The investor who is lured into taking the so-called business man's investment is seldom successful. He holds his "business man's investment" long after it has become a speculation and then sells out at a heavy loss just when the real speculation is ready to buy. The theory fails in another respect. The successful business man must of necessity devote most of his time to his own business. He cannot afford to occupy his mind about his securities. This is even more true of professional men. The moral is that unless you are exceptionally qualified yourself or can rely implicitly upon someone else it is better to leave the business man's investment to others and confine your own holdings to securities of a higher grade.

Mr. Hughes' twenty-ninth article will appear in The Bee next Wednesday.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, June 8.—A more favorable average of weather and crop advices lead to renewed liquidation in the cotton market during today's early trading. The opening was weak at a decline of 25 to 30 points and the market sold off to 27.58 for July and 25.42 for October in the first hour making net losses of 47 to 50 points on the active positions. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline giving the market a very nervous and unsettled appearance.

Owing to the holidays there were no cables from Liverpool to influence sentiment here but selling on the report of improving crop prospects, was encouraged by complaints of continued depression in the cotton goods trade.

MORNING COTTON LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, June 8.—Holiday in Liverpool. The market in South was not as bad over Sunday as some expected from Saturday's forecast. It was mostly clear last night at 12 cotton stations except rain at Montgomery. The forecast is for cloudy weather showers in all cotton states. A London cable says there has been a distinct improvement in cotton trade in Manchester. Domestic mill business, however, is still very slow and New England cotton exports are reported for May almost the lowest on record. The market may ease off some today on favorable private weather reports.

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

WANDERLUST
Warm weather stimulates army enlistments, recruiting officers say. It's an outcropping of the spirit of wanderlust which comes over men and women when the call of the outdoors is loudest.

In winter, it's fine to be sheltered indoors from the cold. Our ancestors battled thousands of years before winter lost its terrors. But when the sun's drowsy-bright and the whispering breeze brings the sweet scent of growing things, it's then we realize that civilization has its price, a terrific one.

Civilization is a penitentiary.

ORIENT
In mystic India, cradle of the white race if not of all races, 20,000 natives are sweltering in the hot sun, building the world's largest dam. It'll be a mile long, to cost 60 million dollars.

That's a huge sum, especially in the Orient. And yet in China, where wages average 18 cents an hour now, 60 million dollars would buy the labor of the entire Chinese population for only one hour.

The Orient's ocean of humanity is, to a white brain, unfathomable in depth. When its hundreds of millions waken and adopt our ways, our descendants are going to have their hands full, comping.

BILLIONS
Uncle Sam says it'd take 321 billion dollars to buy the United States and all its resources. (Mr. Hughes' statistician, says the figure is too high—should be only 273 billions. But what are a few billions among statisticians? More so to a public, few of whom ever saw as much as $10,000 together at one time.)

Easier to grasp is his conclusion that it requires $2000 worth of machinery and plant for each factory or mill worker.

Another Suicides to Protest Law

(By The Associated Press.)
TOKIO, June 9.—Another "Funshi" or protest by suicide at the exclusion of Japanese from immigration in the Nichi Nichi at Miyazaki, Island of Kyushu. The correspondent asserts that a youth threw himself in front of a train and was killed.

The youth asserting that he was committing suicide as an act of protest against the attitude of the United States regarding Japanese immigration said to have been found on his body were not made public.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, June 9.—The Cleveland reserve bank in a review says "employment is declining in some factories. It has been carried to the point where a large number of workers were considered permanent are being affected. Employment bureaus report an increasing number of applicants."

A Pittsburgh Steel Review says: "Steel production will continue to decrease and a forty per cent. rate or even less, may easily develop in the next few weeks."

A review of business in the New York World points out that with steel, coal, lumber, automobile and textile industries running on short time and even building operations falling off, employment conditions approach a critical stage.

From the above I would say that we are beginning to get the real bear market which means that those who take a long range view must begin to modify their bearishness. The moment conditions are so plain that every one can see it, begin to think of discount.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The stock market ushered in the new week with irregularly high prices. Adjourning of Congress with its removal of uncertainty regarding legislation inspired buying in various sections of the market. A few of the more active ones of the initial price changes being of a fractional nature. Rails were in fairly good demand, Erie and Atlantic Coast Line opening half higher.

Stock prices turned reactionary soon after the opening as heavy sellings were apparent in a number of specialties which have been adversely affected by trade conditions. New 1924 lows were established by more than a dozen shares including Lima Locomotive, U. S. Realty, American Sugar Tobacco, Otis Steel pfd., Republic Steel and South Portland. The losses ranging from fractions to three points. Willys-Overland pfd. dropped 2 1/2. Independent strength was shown by Pierce Oil pfd., National Lead and Punta Alegre Sugar, up 1 to 2 points and by Fleischmann and Philadelphia Company, which touched new 1924 tops. All the U. S. government bonds touched new highs. Foreign exchange rates held steady with little trading due to the observance of Whit-Monday.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.
(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, June 9.—The cotton market opened at a sharp decline with rather active trading. First trades showed losses compared with Saturday's close of 24 to 25 points. In the absence of Liverpool advices, that market being closed for the whitewash holidays, the market was influenced by the failure of the western storm areas to bring rains to the cotton belt over Sunday. Cotton goods reports were also discouraging. Prices continued to ease off after the opening until July traded down to 27.92 cents and October to 24.62 or 40 and 50 points respectively below the previous close. The market then became steady at the decline.
